

Module 4 Introduction

Now that you are familiar with authentic and alternative assessment design, what other considerations must we take into account in order to support online assessments? In this final module, you will re-examine your assessment designs through an equity, diversity, decolonization, and inclusion lens. You will work step-by-step through the process of creating fair and balanced evaluation rubrics. Finally, you will explore how to create positive and meaningful feedback opportunities for your online learners. After completing these four modules, you will be ready to incorporate engaging, relevant, and inclusive authentic and alternative assessments into your online courses to help your learners succeed.
