

Youth in Extended Society Care Tuition Bursary

The Access Program's goal is to help you envision post-secondary education at McMaster as a world of possibilities instead of barriers. There are funds to help.

If you grew up in the care of the Children's Aid Society and are planning to attend McMaster, you may be eligible for financial support. Bursary funding is available towards tuition and compulsory fees. This funding is renewable, subject to meeting eligibility requirements for up to four years.

Visit the website to learn more about eligibility and application details.

Application deadline:
May 20, 2023

We can help you find your place at McMaster

McMaster's Access Program connects equity-deserving students and those from historically under-represented backgrounds with information and supports to set them up for success in university.

Equity-deserving groups often include:

-  Students with parents who did not attend/complete post-secondary studies
-  Indigenous students
-  Students with disabilities
-  Racialized minority students (especially youth with Afro-Canadian and Latin American backgrounds)
-  Students from low-income families
-  Students from rural communities
-  Women (in some disciplines)
-  Students who wouldn't attend post-secondary without additional programs or supports
