Module 1: Introduction Video Transcript

I have an online course this semester, and that'll be new for me. I was able to log in pretty easily, but after that things went downhill.

I wasn't able to find the schedule easily. And when I finally did, I saw I had an assignment due next week. But I wasn't sure where to find it. Or what the instructions were.

The lessons seemed disorganized, and the instructor assumed I knew how to find everything. It was pretty frustrating. I spent a lot of time clicking through the course structure looking for things, and less time actually reading over the material.

I thought I'd email the instructor to get some clarity. But I was nervous. Their first email seemed so impersonal and serious, I was worried they'd get mad at me. I decided to just power through it.

It wasn't the best experience, but I was finally able to figure things out.
