

Can you introduce yourself and explain your experience with instructional design or project management?

My name is Kristine Dreaver-Charles and I am an instructional designer at the Distance Education Unit at the University of Saskatchewan. I am a member of the Mistawasis First Nation and an educator. Before I started working at the University of Saskatchewan, I had a career as a high school teacher in Northern Saskatchewan and teaching online as well. I'm also a PhD candidate in the College of Education at the University of Saskatchewan.